

POPVOX is a direct connection to your Members of Congress — and a real-time snapshot of the conversations others are having with lawmakers on the issues you care about. Each pending bill has its own page that gauges support and opposition in easy-to-understand graphs and pie charts.

Anyone can write to Congress, but lawmakers only want to hear from constituents, people who live in their district or state. POPVOX verifies that you're a real person and an actual constituent — and guarantees delivery of your message. While we can't promise that your lawmakers will read your letter, a verified constituent is hard to ignore.

There is power in numbers — but numbers of verified constituents who take the time to express their own thoughts. On the left is an actual petition launched by a major corporation. Obviously fake and even offensive “names” on the petition make a mockery of a serious issue, and seriously undercut all the well-meaning people who took the time to sign. Lawmakers expect these junk signatures — and view petitions as little more than spam. POPVOX’s verification process and real-time data makes petitions, whether they’re on paper or online, obsolete.

We use your information for one purpose only — verifying your address with the U.S. Postal Service and passing it on to your elected officials so they know you're a real constituent. On POPVOX, we will NEVER share your private details with anyone.
